Seas Rupture Dutch Dikes; 1,000 Drown, Hundreds Missing

LONDON (AP)—Possibly more than 1,000 persons have perished in the British, Dutch, and Belgian disaster over the weekend—and there's no let-up, yet, in the flood peril.

The latest unconfirmed total is more than 850 persons dead, and the water still is 30 feet deep in many places with huge new tides rolling in. The Dutch count 464 victims, so far. The British, 395 dead—147 on two ships. And the Belgians 17 drownings. Perhaps more than one million persons are homeless in Holland, alone—with many clinging for life on rooftops and trees. There's no telling, yet, the extent of the property damage.

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands—Europe's three-day death toll from floods passed the 800 mark today. Holland was the worst hit with 394 dead in her most calamitous floods since the 15th Century.

Pilots Vanish In Snow Squall At Madison, Wis.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A fleet of 52 planes conducted an unsuccessful dawn to dusk search Sunday for two air force pilots who vanished Saturday night after a squall caught six F-8 Sabre jets as they came in to land at Traux Air Field here.

Two of the jets landed safely. The remaining four, running out of fuel, could not set down because of the storm. Three of them crashed but two of the pilots parachuted safely. There was no trace of the pilot of the other ship that crashed up or of the fourth plane and its pilot.

The missing are Capt. Hampton Boggs of Harris, Okla., and 1st Lt. Donald Van Ellis of Milwaukee.

Search planes were to take off again today. Light but low cloud formations were forecast and expected to hamper the hunt.

The air fleet of military and private planes scoured an area of some 500 square miles from Madison to a point 15 miles east of the Lake Michigan shore and from Beaver Dam, Wis., to Freeport, Ill.

The fliers who parachuted to safety were Major Otto Kemp, 36, Madison, whose plane went down near a lake about 70 miles east of Truax, and Lt. Kenneth Holker, 23, Chicago, whose ship crashed in a field 30 miles southeast of the home field. The third plane plunged to earth about 15 miles from Kemp's plane and was identified as the ship flown by the missing Capt. Boggs.

Formosa Forces Ready For Raids

By ROY ESSOYAN
HONOLULU (AP)—Vice Adm. Ma Chi-chuang, Nationalist China's chief of naval operations, said today the Chinese Navy is ready to stage commando-type raids on the Communist China coast if President Eisenhower releases the U. S. Seventh Fleet from guarding Formosa Strait.

"We are always ready," he said. But he said systematic major attacks on the China coast were "a question of time."

"I cannot say how long it would take to organize a major attack," he said in an interview. "It is not purely a Navy matter."

Ma passed through Honolulu en route to Washington. He was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Chou Yuhuan, commandant of the Chinese Marine Corps.

Ma said he was "very pleased" with President Eisenhower's reported decision, but that there was "no relation" between it and his trip to Washington.

Returns To Korea

SEOUL (AP)—Maj. John Eisenhower returned to the Korean battle zone today after watching his father inaugurate as president.

Young Eisenhower cut short his leave—ordered by former President Truman—to return to the U. S. 3rd Infantry, in which he is an intelligence officer.

Britain counted 389 dead, Belgium 10 and 10 others died at sea when a trawler went down. Brave little Holland mustered all its strength to meet the disaster. Flood waters whipped up by hurricane winds over the weekend poured over crumbled dikes in the sorely-stricken southwest area. The waters reached 40 miles inland.

Americans Perish
To the mounting toll on land were added deaths at sea—132 drowned in the hurricane-sinking of the ferry Princess Victoria off Northern Ireland Saturday and 15 men lost aboard a trawler which vanished off the Hebrides yesterday.

A U. S. Third Air Force spokesman said the known dead in England included six Americans—an airman, an airman's wife and four children—all drowned at their homes in the area of the U. S. bomber base of Sculthorpe, near Hunstanton on the North Sea Coast of Lincolnshire.

The spokesman said eight other Americans were missing, seven in the Hunstanton area and a sergeant at Bentwater base near Ipswich. There was also an unconfirmed report that a 14-year-old American boy was missing in the Bentwater area.

Winds Still Menace
The Air Force withheld the names of all the dead and missing, pending notification of next of kin. Here in Holland and Belgium, the death toll mounted rapidly last night as the stricken little nations mustered all their resources to meet mounting dangers of disease and starvation. Search teams still were unable to contact many flooded areas.

The Dutch weather bureau warned that high winds today would continue to threaten the broken dikes. In Britain, the forecast was for fresh winds tending to "moderate slowly."

This was the toll of known dead:
The Netherlands: 300
Britain: 163
Belgium: 15

In England grim-faced officials feared that many more residents along the Eastern Coast had been swept out to sea.

The money cost of the week-end disaster—one of the worst in Europe's peacetime history—ran into uncounted millions of dollars.

Crop Lands Ruined

Breaching Holland's historic dikes in countless places, the flood waters poured inland as much as 40 miles at some points. Hardest hit were the provinces of Zeeland and Northern Brabant, in Southern Holland, the Frisian isle of Texel, and the island of Walcheren, at the mouth of the West Scheldt.

At some points the swirling floods were 30 feet deep. Farmers faced months and years of hard toil to reclaim the salt-damaged acres for agriculture.

Authorities estimated that areas populated by four million Dutch and Belgians were flooded.

The waters poured south into Belgium, flooding even wider areas of Flanders and turning the Legislature Gets Peek At State's Tax Possibilities

LANSING (AP)—The Legislature expects to get a peek at a Pandora's box of tax possibilities this week—the Higgins' Legislative Tax Study Commission's report on how the state can raise new money.

Senator George N. Higgins (R-Ferndale), chairman of the study committee, said he expected to make public the group's recommendations before the end of this week.

This is the report for which the Legislature, and most state fiscal officials, have been waiting. Republican lawmakers admittedly have held off on major tax measures until they see what Higgins' group will recommend.

With taxes still holding the entire legislative stage, two other phases of the issue may be clarified this week, too, for third of the 1953 session.

Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) expects to meet with heads of veterans' organizations today to get their reactions to his "package" solution of part of the state's deficit, now reaching toward $90,000,000.

Conlin wants to revise the Sales Tax Diversion amendment to put the school aid end of it on a "pay-as-you-go" basis and to take back the veterans' $50,000,000 trust fund.

Barkley Not Scared In His TV Debut, But Twiddles His Thumbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Not scared... but anxious," Alben W. Barkley made his debut last night as a professional news commentator on the NBC television network.

The former vice president twiddled with his thumbs but there was no hint of uncertainty in his voice, instrument of thousands of speeches in his 75 years. Without script, he rolled off stories and quips.

Appearing with him on the first of a planned series of weekly 15-minute programs called "Meet the Veep" was the veteran commentator Earl Godwin.

Barkley's only comments on current affairs were a prediction that the Korean War would be ended satisfactorily and a plea that the Democratic party give President Eisenhower a chance to fulfill his campaign promises.

Stuck Ship Has Murder Mystery

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Disappearance and probable murder of the chief steward aboard a freighter now aground in Mexican waters provided a sea mystery today.

Radio reports from the ship's master, at least those made public by the Coast Guard and the owners, gave only enough detail to make the case a puzzle.

Capt. H. T. Hallman of the 438-foot SS Fairhope reported that the steward disappeared some time Thursday night. The ship left San Pedro, Calif., at 1:30 p.m. Thursday en route from Yokohama, Japan, to Mobile, Ala., by way of the Panama Canal.

The skipper said there was blood in the steward's quarters, indicating foul play. An owner's representative in Los Angeles said there was no known indication of an accident or suicide.

The ship is owned by Waterman Steamship Corp., of Mobile, Ala., whose president, Capt. Norman Nicholson, identified the missing steward as Carl Thurmond of Sibley, La.

Financing Of Straits Bridge Going Along Fine, Says Brown

DETROIT (AP)—Chairman Prentiss M. Brown of the Mackinac Bridge Authority says preparation of bonds to finance the proposed $93,000,000 Straits of Mackinac Bridge are "progressing according to schedule."

Brown also says there is "nothing whatever" to the "fears" of Rep. Oakman (R-Mich.) that private sources committed to finance the bridge are having trouble raising money.

"The financiers, B. J. Van Igen Co., of New York City, are pro-

Veterans Fight Use Of Trust Fund By State

By The Associated Press
Both the American Legion and the American Veterans of World War II (AMVETS) have opened up their verbal artillery on proposals to use the $500,000,000 veterans trust fund to solve the state's financial problems.

The American Legion's winter conference in Flint voted Saturday to oppose the proposal by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) to abolish the fund.

Eugene N. Houck, Michigan department commander, announced immediately the Legion would fight to keep the fund intact.

Jack H. Hamm, executive director of the Michigan department of AMVETS said Conlin's proposal "in effect will increase the already overburdened state budget."

Under Conlin's plan the Legislature would abolish the fund, taking it for governmental operating purposes, but would at the same time "guarantee" veterans the same amount of money each year that they now get in interest earnings on the fund.

"Today, the annual interest earned by this fund provides $1,250,000 which is divided proportionately among the counties of the state for needy World War II veterans and their families, and we were recently successful in having veterans of the Korean conflict and their families included."

"If the bonds are to be turned into cash, there will be a loss of $1,300,000 over the face value of the bonds, x x x Each year the state would be faced with the prospect of providing, by appropriation, an amount equal to the present interest return of $1,250,000."

U. S. Attorney Resigns

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Joseph F. Deeb has resigned as U. S. Attorney for the West Michigan district, effective upon the appointment of a successor. Deeb, a Democrat, mailed his resignation to Attorney General Herbert Brownell Saturday. Thirty when he was appointed in 1940, Deeb then was the youngest U. S. District Attorney.

Sinking Of British Ferry In Irish Sea Takes Lives Of 132

DONAGHADEE, Northern Ireland (AP)—The British government started an inquiry today into the sinking of the ferry Princess Victoria in the Irish Sea with a loss of 132 lives.

Wearry Coast Guardsmen and lifeboat crews had recovered 73 bodies when darkness forced them to quit last night with no hopes of further survivors.

Door Smashed In
Only 44 of the 176 persons who set out on the 36-mile crossing from Stranraer, Scotland, to Larne, Northern Ireland, Saturday morning lived through the disaster.

Not one of the more than 30 women and children aboard was among the rescued.

The inquiry into the cause of the sinking was announced by a spokesman for the state-owned British railway system, which operated the ferry.

The 2,694-ton vessel was only 35 minutes out of Stranraer when a towering sea, blown up by a sudden gale, smashed to the deck a door of the compartment where she carried cars and trucks.

The ship quickly took on tons of water and went out of control, drifting toward the Irish coast, while lifeboats and rescue ships bucked mountainous waves in response to her radioed SOS.

Swept Into Icy Waters
There was some confusion about the crippled vessel's position, and precious time was lost searching for her along the Scottish coast.

The Princess Victoria rolled over and went down five miles off this little Irish port less than seven hours after the first big wave hit her.

New Trial Denied

FLINT (AP)—A 71-year-old convict's motion for a new trial, after pleading guilty 25 years ago to raping and mutilating the body of a little girl, was denied today by Circuit Judge Paul V. Gadola.

Adolph Hotelling, a Marquette prison inmate, had petitioned for a retrial, claiming his original confession was made under duress.

Gadola said his petition was "groundless."

Eisenhower Favors Ending Of Controls; Bans Secret Pacts

By ED CREAUGH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower announced today he is ordering the U. S. Seventh Fleet to stop shielding Communist China and, in a surprise move, he invited Congress to disavow any Roosevelt-Truman "secret undertakings" which permit enslavement of people anywhere.

At home, the new Republican President cautioned against tax cuts until a balanced budget is in sight and gave his blessing to the end of all price and wage controls when present authority for them expires on April 30.

Eisenhower said the present effect of the Truman order neutralizing the Chinese Nationalist island of Formosa is to protect the very Chinese Reds who are killing American soldiers in Korea.

Eisenhower spoke out in a State of the Union message which brought him before a joint session of Congress for the first time since he took office.

It was a far-ranging 8,500-word address in which the Chief Executive took "individual liberty" for his theme and—

1. Said near-balance of the budget, and with it the prospect of

2. Predicted that with the end of controls some prices will go up and others will come down.

3. Said in emphatic terms this country has "incontrovertible evidence that Soviet Russia possesses atomic weapons." Former President Truman had stirred up a controversy by expressing doubt in a recent interview that the Russians had a workable A-bomb.

4. Promised all action within his power to wipe out race segregation in the District of Columbia and in the armed forces. Beyond that, Eisenhower indicated he would "through friendly conferences with those in authority in our states and cities" to seek civil rights progress.

5. Announced a new system of checking the loyalty of federal employees, together with a series of studies and surveys designed to end "waste and incompetence" in the Post Office and other departments.

Hearing Called On Conant For HICOG Office

Newsmen and the public were barred.

Secret Papers Wanted
At the same time the committee was awaiting word on whether it will be given access to secret information on Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, a long-time friend and associate of Eisenhower, who has been nominated for under secretary of state.

The committee declined to disclose in advance of its hearing on Conant's nomination who the witnesses would be. Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) said several persons or groups had asked to be heard in opposition.

The findings of the all-day survey are compiled by the secretary-treasurer - historian for the lodge archives. It's esoteric stuff, strictly top secret, stored up for future books on groundhogery.

Bland and beneficent, Charles Hess, hibernating governor, confided: "The outcome of today's daring innovation may be so sensational as to make all our earlier efforts seem like child's play."

He meant the master project—the avowed intention to shoot a rocket, with two groundhogs aboard, to the moon.

Let Hess continue: "This is our supreme tribute to science, our grand gesture to the only member we've had who became U. S. president. The idea is to be sure that, when the first scientists land on the moon, groundhogs will be there, as they were on our own planet from the beginning."

Farmer Killed Fighting Police

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—A farmer who thought he was being persecuted by "law enforcement men" died yesterday in a four-hour gun battle with 17 policemen.

The bullet, pierced body of C. D. Burgoyne, 47, was found in his three-room farm home near the Southern Oregon community of Riddle. More than 2,000 rounds of pistol and rifle ammunition were fired, Sheriff Cal Baird reported.

Near the body, Baird said, was a notebook in which this entry had been written under the date of Dec. 31:

"My resolution for the year 1953 is if possible to shoot to kill any person or persons that try to molest me for the purpose of injuring my mind or body and this resolution is especially written as by acts of the past by law enforcement men—Damn them to hell."

Burgoyne had been taken into custody several times in the past for mental hearings, Baird said.

Burgoyne recently had been accused by neighbors of firing a gun in the direction of a child and of trying to run a man down with a horse.

The neighbors had sworn out a complaint and deputies arrived at Burgoyne's home early yesterday to arrest him. The gun battle ensued.

Four Persons, Two Escanabans, Killed In Auto Wreck Sunday

Four persons, including two Escanabans, were killed in a head-on collision of two cars on U. S. 2, four miles west of Hermansville, at 3 a. m., Sunday.

The dead are Oscar Kjellgren, 55, of 601 N. 19th St., Escanaba; his wife, Eileen, 36; Miss Betty Ann Racine, R. N., 28, of Iron River; and Walter Jasonowicz, 35, of Norway.

Mr. and Mrs. Kjellgren were returning to Escanaba from a teamsters' union banquet in Iron Mountain when their car, driven by Mrs. Kjellgren, collided on a curve near Cunard with a car driven by Jasonowicz, who was driving west on U. S. 2.

Michigan State Police and officers of the Menominee Sheriff's department report skid marks show that the Kjellgren car was four feet over the centerline in the gradual curve. Jasonowicz' car was four inches from the shoulder on the right side of the road, and skidded 67 feet before colliding with the Kjellgren car.

Kjellgren Killed Instantly

Kjellgren was killed instantly and his wife died at 6:30 a. m., Sunday in Penn Hospital in Norway. Both died of fractured skulls.

Miss Racine, a member of the nursing staff at the Veterans Hospital in Iron Mountain, died of a fractured skull at 8 a. m., Sunday in Penn Hospital in Norway. Jasonowicz, an insurance agent, died of a broken neck, enroute to the hospital.

Two passengers in the Jasonowicz car were injured in the collision, one of them critically. Miss Beth Olson, 24, of Stambaugh, also a nurse at the Veterans Hospital in Iron Mountain, is in critical condition in the Iron Mountain hospital; and Joseph Rocchietti, 36, of Norway, is in Penn hospital at Norway.

Miss Olson is suffering lacerations of the scalp, internal injuries, a fractured pelvis and shock. Rocchietti, who is less seriously injured, is suffering a fractured arm and severe shock.

No Charges Made

Atty. Michael J. Anutta, acting Menominee County prosecuting attorney, investigated the accident. No charges will be made.

Oscar Kjellgren, 601 N. 19th St., was born Nov. 6, 1897 in Sweden and came to the United States when five. He has lived in the Escanaba area about 50 years.

For the past eight years he was employed as a mechanic by the Clairmont Transfer Company. Previously he worked for the state highway department and C. G. Bridges construction company.

Kjellgren was a trustee of Local 328 of the A. F. of L. Teamsters and Chauffeurs' union, a trustee of the Escanaba Eagles club, a member of the Trades and Labor Council and the North Star Lodge. He was a member of the Bethany Lutheran church.

The Escanaba man leaves two daughters, Nancy Ann, 17, and Mary Louise, 14; a sister, Mrs. Gus Ottoson of Norway, and a brother, Carl Kjellgren of Republic.

Services Wednesday

Mrs. Kjellgren, the former Eileen Destrampe, was born July 7, 1916, in Chassell, and was married to Mr. Kjellgren Jan. 27, 1934 in Chassell. She was a member of St. Thomas the Apostle church, the Daughters of Isabella and the Eagles auxiliary.

Besides her two daughters, Mrs. Kjellgren leaves two sisters, Mrs. Pat O'Connor of Escanaba and Mrs. Earl Schotts of Milwaukee, and two brothers, Edward and Earl Destrampe of Escanaba.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Kjellgren were removed to Boyce Funeral Home here. The body of Jasonowicz was removed to a Norway Funeral Home and that of Miss Racine to Iron River.

Friends of the Kjellgrens may call at Boyce Funeral Home after 2 p. m., Tuesday. The Daughters of Isabella will recite the rosary in Boyce Chapel at 4 p. m., Tuesday and the general rosary will be recited at 8 p. m., Tuesday.

Double funeral services for the couple will be conducted at St. Thomas the Apostle church at 10 a. m., Wednesday with the Rev. Arnold Thompson officiating. Burial will be in Gardens of Rest cemetery.

V. F. Lemmer Resigns U. P. State Fair Board

Victor F. Lemmer, of Ironwood, member of the Upper Peninsula State Fair board of managers since 1950, has submitted his resignation to Gov. G. Mennen Williams, effectively immediately, Mr. Lemmer has announced.

Lemmer said that he is resigning as a member of the fair board at this time to permit Gov. Williams to appoint an agricultural leader as a successor. Lemmer pointed out in his letter to the governor that the farmer is not represented on the board at the present time.

Lemmer's term as a member of the board would have expired in May of this year. He was the only Republican member on the board following the appointment of A. G. Phillips, St. Ignace, to succeed John MacInnis.

The letter of resignation to Gov. Williams dated Jan. 30, follows: "Pursuant to our conversation yesterday at Michigan State College and also in accordance with my conference in Lansing with Mr. Lawrence Farrell, I hereby, very respectfully, present my resignation as a member of the Board of Managers of the Upper Peninsula State Fair.

"As you know, my term as a Republican member of the board will expire in May of this year, and I should very much like to give you an opportunity to make an immediate appointment of an agricultural leader, since the farmer is not represented on the board at the present time. Inasmuch as the purpose of the fair is to promote agricultural and industrial advancement, it is vitally important that an appointment be made as soon as possible to enable the new member to become acquainted with his responsibilities well in advance of the 1953 fair at Escanaba.

"I wish to take this opportunity to express my gratitude for the cooperation extended to me during my term on the Board of Managers.

"I shall appreciate your kindness in considering this letter as

FIRST ALL-TRANSISTOR HEARING AID TO BE SHOWN HERE SOON

A revolutionary new hearing aid, first consumer product to fully utilize the amazing transistor, will make its debut here soon, according to Mrs. Pearl Witte of The Maico Company, 1011 1st Ave. south, Escanaba.

The new instrument, the Maico "Transist-Ear", was introduced in several key markets January 9th. Date of the first public showing here is expected to be set within a few weeks.

The "Transist-Ear" is powerful enough to help all but the most severely deafened. Mrs. Witte said, yet is so tiny it may be worn on the wrist... as a tie clasp or brooch... or even concealed in the hair. Hardly larger than a cigarette lighter, it weighs only a little over two ounces—about half what many aids weigh.

Completely redesigned for all-transistor operation, the new Maico instrument employs three transistors and a pill-sized energy capsule to completely eliminate the vacuum tubes and bulky batteries of the conventional aid.

Several recently introduced instruments, though called "transistor hearing aids", actually use only one transistor in combination with tubes or other devices. Some still require both "A" and "B" batteries—others a rather large "A" battery only.

One of the most unusual features of the new Maico "Transist-Ear" is the variety of ways in which it may be worn. Equipped with a comb-type clip, it can easily be concealed in an attractive coiffure. For hair styles which do not completely cover the ears, attractive "Hearings" complete the concealment by hiding the tiny receiver worn in the user's ear.

The instrument will also be available with clips designed to serve as tie clasps or with flexible wrist bands as well as the conventional clothing clip.

Mrs. Witte said laboratory tests indicate that the new Maico instrument will bring users savings of about 75 per cent in operating costs from those of the conventional vacuum tube aid.

Because the transistors are as rugged and dependable as they are tiny, maintenance costs are also expected to be substantially lower than for vacuum tube aids.

The transistor has a life expectancy of about 20 years of hearing aid use, as compared with a little more than a year for the sub-miniature vacuum tube. Because they are less subject to damage through shock or vibration, the transistors are not nearly so likely to become noisy, the manufacturers predict.

Adaptation of the instrument to the individual user's hearing loss, long a Maico feature, is continued in the new model. Through internal adjustments made at the time the instrument is fitted, emphasis of certain frequencies is achieved to give the type of correction needed by the purchaser.

Much of the credit for the new instrument's unusual features must go to L. A. Watson, president of the Maico Company, Mrs. Witte said.

Watson, founder of the firm, is president of the American Hearing Aid Association and an eminent authority on hearing and hearing aids. His 600-page book "Hearing Tests and Hearing Instruments", is widely used in universities both here and abroad.

The company, which Watson founded in 1936, also produces a number of special instruments, best known of which are their audiometers, precision electronic instruments for testing hearing. Of all the precision audiometers made in the United States today, 90 per cent are produced by Maico.

Of several other special instruments inspired by Watson, perhaps the most spectacular is the "Chromalizer", which converts sounds of various frequencies into changing color patterns on a light panel. It is used to help teach deaf children to speak by enabling them to "see" what they say.

Another unusual product of the firm is the Psychometer, which uses the "lie detector" principle of psychoanalytic reaction to take guess-work out of hearing tests made on very young children. It is also used to detect "faked" hearing losses.

Colenso's Buys Garber's Shop

John R. Colenso

John R. Colenso, president of Colenso's, Inc. with home offices at Iron Mountain announced today that Colenso's Inc., has purchased the Garber Apparel Shop of Escanaba. Colenso's operate one of the finest men's, women's and children's store north of Milwaukee in Iron Mountain and a quality men's shop at Ironwood.

Mr. Colenso stated that they have completed negotiations for a new lease on the building which is owned by I. H. Oshins here and that their plans include running a "Going Out of Business Sale". When this is accomplished the building will be completely remodeled with new fixtures, lighting fixtures and carpeting. At that time the new store will be open under the new name, "Colenso's Mid-Lady Shop."

Colenso's will carry in this store only women's Name Brand quality wearing apparel.

Mr. Colenso stated further that the future of Escanaba as a shopping center looks very bright and this is the main reason for their coming here.

Film Couple Signed

HOLLYWOOD — Lucille Ball and her husband Desi Arnaz will star in the movie "The Long, Long Trailer," next June. MGM announced last night it had signed the stars of the television show "I Love Lucy."

The film will be based on a book by the late Clinton (Buddy) Twiss about life in a trailer.

Winter, Old Groundhog, Arrive Together Today

The groundhog (or woodchuck) may or may not see his shadow today, but it appears almost certain that we will have at least six weeks more of winter weather in Northern Michigan, said S. E. Decker, U. S. Weather bureau meteorologist at Escanaba.

Decker bases his forecast on the U. S. Weather Bureau's long-range outlook, rather than on the groundhog.

Although the day was ushered in with a snowstorm that is expected to bring six to seven inches of snow on the ground by nightfall, there is still the possibility the sun might break through the clouds late in the day, Decker said.

"If I were a groundhog I would have gone back into my den this morning," said the Escanaba weatherman. "But possibly I would come out this afternoon if the sun shines. The outlook — from the groundhog's traditional viewpoint — is that confused."

The long-range weather forecast is for normal precipitation and below normal temperatures for February.

"Since we had very little winter weather so far, it appears probable that we will get our winter in February — no matter what happens to the groundhog and his shadow," Decker commented.

Note: According to tradition, if the groundhog sees his shadow there will be six more weeks of winter; if the sky is overcast and there is no shadow it means an early spring.

It's Golden Gloves Time Again; Boxers Provide Thrills, Action

IT'S Golden Gloves time in Escanaba and tonight and tomorrow night amateur boxers from all sections of the Upper Peninsula will compete in this sports classic at the Junior High School gym here for U. P. titles.

The thousands of sports fans who have witnessed Golden Gloves matches here over the years know that the amateur boxers provide the utmost in boxing action and sports entertainment. These youngsters, most of them in their teens, box for the love of it. They compete in three-round matches and give everything they have for those brief moments.

Golden Gloves boxing is safe. Every precaution is taken to assure the protection of the competitors. It is significant that in the 14 years Golden Gloves boxing has been presented in Escanaba, there have been no injuries of any consequence. All of the boxers are protected by insurance covering medical or hospital costs but there has never been a single claim on these policies.

All of the boxers submit to physical examinations, immediately preceding their bouts. In cases where a boxer is over-matched, the bout is stopped. The officials are instructed to protect the welfare of the competitors and if a boy is dazed by a blow, the match is over. These boys are amateurs, getting no pay for their efforts, and their safety is the first consideration of the officials.

Some of the top fighters in the nation have come up to professional boxing from the amateur ranks, most of them through Golden Gloves tournaments.

Incidentally, Golden Gloves boxing has contributed many thousands of dollars to charitable purposes throughout the nation, including a substantial sum of money right here in Escanaba.

In Escanaba, the tournaments are sponsored by the Escanaba Daily Press and the Escanaba Lions Club. Golden Gloves tournaments are primarily a newspaper enterprise. In Escanaba the Escanaba Lions Club handles the promotions and where there are profits, the Lions Club used the profits to carry on its work of charity and projects for the community well-being.

If you like sports action, and particularly body contact sports, you'll love Golden Gloves boxing.

U. S. Seventh Fleet May Be Withdrawn

THE plan of President Eisenhower to release the American Seventh Fleet from Formosa to open the way for Chinese Nationalist raids on the Chinese Communist mainland rates three cheers.

There is no doubt that the Chinese Reds will have to free some of their forces now supporting the Korean war to defend their own mainland after the Seventh Fleet is released from Formosa. That will relieve pressure on Allied Nation troops, including Americans, fighting in Korea and it will provide an effective means of utilizing the Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa.

The Fleet was moved into Formosan waters originally to safeguard the Nationalist troops, then too weak to repel an invading army of Communists. The Nationalist forces on Formosa, however, are now greatly strengthened and the threat of Communist invasion has been dissipated by the turn of events in Korea. Our fleet in Formosan waters now serves as a help, rather than a hindrance of Communist objectives.

It is a bold move but one that offers great benefits toward a solution to the Korean war.

HOW FAST IS SAFE?

(Detroit Free Press)

A bill which would put a top speed limit on Michigan highways at 65 miles per hour during the day and 55 miles at night has been introduced in the Michigan Senate.

Before enacting any such measure, Michigan lawmakers should consider whether a 65-mile limit will save lives on the State's highways.

Emphasis has recently been placed in the fact that speed is the great killer on the roads, particularly on roads which are not adequate for high speeds.

In other states the maximum limit is much lower—as is the number of accidents.

Granted, there are areas and conditions in this State in which speeds of 65 miles or more are safe.

They could be made the exceptions from the maximum limits instead of posting the dangerous roads for lower speeds as is done now.

Girls should ring off on a flatterer when his line is out of order.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The European pilgrimage of John Foster Dulles is probably the most important made by a Secretary of State in 20 years. In it may depend the future peace of the world.

This is written not in any sense of drama. It is hard, cold reason. Because wars do not come upon the world swiftly. Their seeds are planted years in advance, and rifts between nations, scarcely perceptible to the naked eye, can grow into big rifts—and eventually war.

Dulles has undertaken this mission in order to bring France and Germany together in a United European Army. If he is successful, we should witness a reasonably long period of European peace. If he is not successful, Western Europe is almost certain to drift farther and farther apart, with Germany wooed by Russia as the balance of power. This is almost certain to end in war.

In many respects, Dulles' trip is not unlike the last pilgrimage to Europe made by another Republican Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson, who, watching the faint sign of war clouds in 1932, went to Geneva in a vain but heroic effort to build up the world's machinery for peace.

Dulles knows this background. He knew even before he took the oath as Secretary of State, that secret diplomatic cables from our embassies reported NATO's defense program dangerously bogged down. He knew it would have to be bucked up immediately or else get bogged down permanently. Nothing less urgent than this diplomatic cross-road could have compelled a new Secretary of State, only 10 days in office, to leave for Europe.

DULLES' DIPLOMATS

Here are the problems Dulles faces, both at home and abroad:

On the Home Front — Behind him, is Dulles' letter demanding "positive loyalty." State Department career men, many from staid Republican families, considered this an insult, made their views so vocal that Dulles staged a special pep rally to assuage their ire. He also appointed a committee of three distinguished ex-diplomats to advise on career diplomacy; ex-Ambassador Hugh Gibson, close friend of Herbert Hoover; Joe Grew, who made history as Ambassador to Japan; and Norman Armour, with a notable record as envoy to various countries.

European Army — Dulles' chief problem in resurrecting the cherished goal of French and German soldiers marching under one flag will be France.

The French are increasingly worried about Germany's upsurge of Nazism—as are other people; have had their resources drained by the Indo-China War; can't supply enough manpower to a West European army until the Indo-China War is finished. Also new Premier Rene Mayer is slightly miffed that Winston Churchill stole the jump on him in coming to see Eisenhower and won't like it when Dulles tells him that all trips by foreign potentates are off until Ike gets settled.

Regarding U. S. aid, Dulles threw out an advance warning in his speech last week which boiled down to this: "No defense, no dollars." This had an immediate effect in Paris. However, he may be caught on the double prongs of GOP performance and GOP promises.

What the French will want to know is just exactly how much aid the United States will extend them in return for a European army. They will want to know this definitely and categorically, in dollars and cents.

In reply, Secretary Dulles will be inclined to say: "That depends on congress."

That kind of answer will carry out a promise he made the senate foreign relations committee when he was confirmed. He would consult the senate before formulating policies, he pledged, not afterward.

If he makes this reply to the French, however, Dulles will not come home with definite French support for a United European army, and the defense of Western Europe will continue to skid downhill.

BALANCING THE BUDGET

Secretary Dulles has another political promise to worry about—the GOP promise to balance the budget. This also will hamper his negotiations in France.

Not only have Mr. Dulles' Republican colleagues promised to balance the budget, but when President Truman sent his recent budget to congress there were vigorous GOP promises that it would be cut drastically.

However, Mr. Truman left a joker in his budget message. He pointed out that estimated aid to Europe had been increased this year because the Republicans had cut it the year before. They cut it, incidentally, despite a special plea by General Eisenhower that it not be cut.

This is Dulles' dilemma. It happens to Democrats and it happens to Republicans. And it's sure to happen to him—even though the future peace of the world may be at stake.

The Shouts Heard 'Round the World

Story Of Battle:

Men And Guns Leave Telltale Marks Along Invasion Highway

BY JIM BECKER

WESTERN FRONT, Korea—It is a winding road and well travelled. It has felt the boots of fighting men of many nations. It is the road that meanders north, the ancient invasion road to Seoul.

The Korean war has raged up and down it for 31 months and a trip along its dusty contour is a trip into nostalgia.

Tacked to its sagging telephone poles and shell-blasted trees are the identification signs of the many units which have passed this way. The sign painters, and some of the units, have gone from Korea but the faded signs remain.

Other units have left their marks on the rubble buildings along the way. And one engineering company erected a sign board beside a small wooden bridge long ago. It reads: "Erected July, 1950; destroyed August, 1950; erected October, 1950; destroyed January, 1951; erected March, 1951. Charlie company, 13th Engineers."

At a turn in the road is the spot where a very brave and quite fanatical Chinese soldier crouched in the weeds for hours without food or water and waited for a target that was worth his life.

Hundreds of soldiers and vehicles passed by until the Chinese selected a loaded ammunition truck and blew it, and himself, up.

Farther along is the jagged stone pile of mountains where the gallant soldiers of the 15th Regiment left so many comrades. The men scrambled a most straight up into the Chinese machine gun fire for three days before they reached the top.

In the valley below, Gen. Douglas MacArthur stood and watched the action on the hill, so close that one soldier whispered to another: "I think the old boy wants to die in combat."

And there is the trail that leads to another hill. You stood there many months ago and interviewed a bright-faced young American and 15 minutes after he left you he was carried down the trail with a jagged hole torn in his head. His blond head lay on a blood-soaked litter and he died quietly.

There is the blackened hulk of a burned out building once occupied by the irrepressible Wolfhounds, the fighting men of the great 27th Regiment. Their legendary leader, Col. now Brig. Gen. Mike Michaelis stood there and roared with laughter as his high spirited men blew up the brick chimney.

The Wolfhounds were letting off steam after many months in the line. When Michaelis asked his men who had blown up the chimney, a soldier called out: "The Air Force did it, sir."

North Korean tanks rumbled down this road to start the Korean war. And Allied tanks chased them back. Chinese padded down it in such terrific numbers their shuffling feet raised dust clouds that stretched for miles.

One machine gunner sat on a hilltop overlooking the road and watched a column of Chinese four abreast trot past him for 17 minutes. He slipped away through the hills. An officer later asked him if he fired at the column. "Would you?" asked the gunner. Many times the heart-tearing procession of Korean refugees gathered their few pitiful belongings and shuffled, head down, to the south to escape the Communist armies.

The last time they made the trip many were decked out in their colorful best Sunday clothes. They explained they wore the vivid silken garments because they had nothing else left.

Baroken, twisted strands of telephone wire, the rotting remains of a freight train blasted from the tracks long ago, the carcass of a twisted tank tell their mute story of the strange struggle that has raged up and down this road.

And there is the faded sign pointing to a vacant field where the now departed 24th Division established its command post many months ago. The code name of that unit, first in Korea, was "Danger." And the sign still reads: "Danger Forward."

Birman: The Fakir Who Couldn't Help Himself

By WADE JONES

PARIS—(NEA)—For the last ten years the fakir Birman had lived in Paris, almost unknown and almost forgotten, manufacturing women's corsets.

But back in the 30's, black-bearded and turbaned, he reigned richly here in a "palace" with Oriental furnishings, many mirrors, shaded lights, and a pool full of baby alligators.

In the palace he sat on a throne of oak and dispensed advice for a price on love and le money to thousands, included many Americans. And when he went out he drove a Mercedes-Benz.

He died violently the other day and many of those who once flocked to him believe the change between the then and the now, between the life of the turbaned fakir and that of the corset maker, helped kill him.

The fakir was born as Charles Fossez 32 years ago in the provincial town of St. Etienne. At 32, he descended on Paris and set up shop as a costumed fakir, of which his version was a sort of combined fortune teller and love-lorn editor.

At first he dealt almost exclusively with personal problems of his clients, handing out secrets for happiness, particularly on affairs of the heart.

When the national lottery was instituted in France in 1934, the fakir Birman entered into a new and vastly more remunerative phase. People began flocking to him for advice on the numbers. "My mail grew all of a sudden," he once said. "Overnight my clients were more numerous. Only they spoke no more to me of dying of love, but of indigestion from lottery tickets that didn't win."

Entertainers like Maurice Chevalier sang songs about him. His picture was used to sell lottery tickets. He was on the radio, conducted a newspaper column, and appeared on movie screens and at the Tour de France, a bicycle race which is a French national event.

By 1939, the fakir's fortune-telling factory employed 20 secretaries, 65 typists, and he had consorted and scanned the future for 502,062 clients (his own precise figure) at 50 francs a head, or about $1.25.

But in that same year the fakir predicted himself into trouble. The husband of one of his clients sued him and in the resultant court case, the fakir's bubble burst. Or as the French put it, "His cabinet fell."

The fakir Birman made a few theater appearances after that but his magic with the public was gone. In 1942 he set up the corset-making shop with his wife, herself an established woman in the business.

In the moment of his own greatest need, the man who had given hope to so many could give to himself none.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

DANGEROUS BUSINESS—There are approximately 200 to 250 men employed in commercial fishing in Delta county.

For some of them it is a parttime job, for others it is a vocation in which they have been engaged for a lifetime.

Even for the man who has spent many years in the business, fishing is a hazardous occupation. The oldtime fishermen will disagree with you. They know the dangers and how to avoid most of them.

But knowing all the risks does not mean that they are never encountered. Some of the dangers met and overcome by fishermen—ranging from storms on the lakes to explosions on the boats, fires, and the possibility of drowning—would make less hardy men take up other work.

TO THE RESCUE—Never to our knowledge have commercial fishermen refused to assist in rescue efforts on the lakes, and often they volunteer when other men turn back.

This is the first time the story has been told of the rescue mission attempted by a group of commercial fishermen on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 24, when six ice fishermen were drifting on an ice floe into the open water of Green Bay south of Escanaba.

That the rescue effort failed of its purpose was not the fault of the fishermen, who made their way by boat to the ice floe where the men had been removed by airplane.

They were still searching the stormy, ice-choked waters of the bay for the stranded fishermen when a message was dropped by airplane, telling them that the rescue had been effected by plane.

BOAT IS BATTERED—The rescue trip was made in the fish boat "Connie J." owned and operated by Harold C. Olson of Ford River Road, and assisted by a crew of volunteers.

The "Connie J." is docked at Misery Bay about 10 miles south of Escanaba. A channel had to be cut through shore ice to get the boat out.

Aboard besides Olson were Ed and Irving Dahm, Buzz Riegel, Ed Anderson, Ralph Christensen and John Chrisk.

Once in the open water beyond the reef protecting Misery Bay the "Connie J." ran into heavy fog. Winds estimated at 30 to 40 miles an hour piled up the waves and whipped off their tops in whitecaps.

Olson ran his boat full speed. Chunks of ice, difficult to see because of the white caps, were rammed by the "Connie J." with such force that the men were knocked down.

"I was afraid to look up forward after we hit an ice cake," one of the men told me. "I expected to see a hole in the planking and water pouring in."

NEVER GAVE UP—The sturdy "Connie J." rode the seas and bucked the ice floes for two and one-half hours. In the waves the rock ballast rolled from side to side.

Spray from the waves coated the boat with ice and in the seas it was difficult for the men to focus the binoculars on the floes to determine if the stranded fishermen were still there.

So they continued their search. Once they ran the "Connie J." into a floe and got out the ice to better view the bay through the glasses.

They were ready to head still farther out into the storm-whipped bay when the plane came over and dropped the message that the fishermen had been rescued.

THEY DID NOT FAIL—Afterward the pilot of the plane told the men aboard the "Connie J." that they were in the area where the marooned fishermen had been.

Olson and his crew would have rescued the men had they still been there. The mission was not a failure for it demonstrated again that commercial fishermen will risk their boats and their lives when others are in danger on the lakes.

The story did not come to me from any of the fishermen. They are modest men who do not seek publicity. But because it was not previously reported and was not generally known the story needs telling, to give credit to men who have never refused a call for help when their help was needed.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

Nowadays the stores and the manufacturers are all advertising what they call "casual clothes." Because advertising agencies have a tremendous influence on the development of our language, it becomes a dictionary man to follow the ads and keep abreast of the terms they use. So let's see how they evolved that present application of casual.

The original meaning of casual was, and still is, occurring by chance. From Latin casus which means chance. It was then but a step to give it the meaning, "having an appearance of chance, unplanned, haphazard." Then, in recent years, men and women began to wear comfortable, loose-fitting garments at informal affairs or for relaxation, with no more than chance regard to pattern, design, or color.

A psychiatrist says obesity is a "matter of one's frame of mind." "I'm feeling fat today — must have been something I thought!"

The Doctor Says...

Fright Is An Unlikely Cause Of Death In Normal Cases

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. — Written for NEA Service

We have all heard the expression "it almost frightened me to death," or "it scared the life out of me." The obvious fact that people who say this are alive and usually well is a good sign that fright does not often kill.

A severe fright can certainly cause a lot of distress, however. The question as to whether it can ever cause death has recently been raised again in an interesting article in one of our leading medical journals.

The discussion revolved around the case of a young woman who had had attacks of smothering sensations, palpitation of the heart, weakness and other peculiar symptoms off and on for a period of two years.

At first, nothing could be found to account for these attacks. Finally, while she was being given a test of the heart, she became alarmed by a box put in front of her containing pills and her heart started to beat more rapidly in short bursts. At the same time she complained of the same symptoms which she had had periodically over the past two years.

She did not die of this experience, but the doctors concluded that in a person who had certain kinds of heart disease it might be possible for a severe fright to cause death.

In discussing this problem the subject of "Voodoo deaths" naturally comes up. Apparently, this kind of death from fright really occurs following "hexing" by a "medicine man" or by "black magic." An interesting example of this kind was described some time ago:

"A young Negro on a journey lodged in a friend's house for the night. The friend had prepared for their breakfast a wild hen, a food strictly banned by a rule which must be inviolably observed by the immature.

"The young fellow demanded whether it was indeed a wild hen, and when the host answered 'No,' he ate of it heartily and proceeded on his way.

HOST TOLD SECRET

"A few years later, when the two met again, the old friend asked the younger man if he would eat a wild hen. He answered that he had been solemnly charged by a wizard not to eat that food. Thereupon the host began to laugh and asked him why he refused it now after having eaten it at his table before.

"On hearing this news the Negro immediately began to tremble, so greatly he was possessed by fear, and in less than 24 hours was dead."

While it is interesting to study the possibility that the common expressions quoted at the beginning of this column may have some basis in fact, the chances of being truly "frightened to death" are so unlikely that for all practical purposes we can forget about it.

Wheat For Pigs Goes To Humans

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
WASHINGTON — Our subject today is inedible wheat, which is more edible under certain circumstances than the edible kind. Let us not be squeamish about it.

Americans have been eating millions of bushels of wheat imported from Canada specifically for hogs. The question is who's the loser? The people? Or the pigs?

If ever there was a confusing governmental snafu, which apparently has cost us taxpayers at least $100,000,000, this is it. I trust it does not also turn our stomachs, but back in 1950 some mighty smart fellows made an important discovery about a loop-hole in the tariff law.

This provided that if a carload of imported wheat contained more than 30 per cent of damaged kernels, it was unfit for human consumption. And hence, it was taxable at only eight cents a bushel instead of 21. So, they began bringing down this damaged wheat by the millions of bushels.

The Wheat Subsidy
A little of it went to the pigs, but the figures of the General Accounting Office indicated that a great deal of it got ground into flour. (You may have had a dollop of it in your pancakes this morning.) A good deal more got mixed with grade-A American wheat and shipped abroad under the international wheat agreement.

This meant that we taxpayers were shelling out a multi-million dollar subsidy on grain intended for our own livestock.

The members of the Senate agriculture committee, mostly incensed, agreed that our losses in tariffs, subsidy payments, and displacement of our own wheat by the pig food, had cost us at least $100,000,000. And what had it done to our own stomachs?

"This inedible wheat has been proved to be edible," testified Frank H. Weitzel, assistant to the comptroller general. "We may be eating it in our breakfast food for all I know."

He said the Food and Drug Administration had examined the unfit wheat and found that some of its kernels, indeed, were shriveled from frost. But, it still was good to eat.

What Is A Law
"In some circumstances, such as use for malting, this inedible wheat is more edible than edible wheat," he added.

This is where a number of Senators and I began to bang our heads against the marble wall. The Senators, led by chairman George Aiken (R-Vt.), were bound to call in all the alleged villains. Sen. Clinton D. Anderson (D-Ariz.) said they ought to be in jail.

This seemed like a good idea, except that Weitzel wasn't sure they'd broken any law. They'd imported inedible wheat openly and paid the proper tariff. What happened to it afterwards, apparently, was none of the government's business under the present law.

Weitzel indicated his belief that the gentlemen might consider writing a new law. My own idea is that the Tariff Commission would be wise to figure out a new definition of inedible grain. If wheat is unfit for human consumption by law, but not in fact, somebody somewhere in our government is an awful dope and no amount of gobbledegook is going to make me think otherwise.

This is only the beginning. We'll

Atomic Energy To Light Homes And Run Plants Within 2 Years

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK —Atomic energy to run industrial power plants and light homes is possible within two years—one authority predicts today—if Congress and the Defense Department would permit it.

juice into existing electric lines in the Detroit area.

The Atomic Energy Commission itself says that such plants may be financially feasible "in a few years."

And in England government officials report they are so far along with plans to build an atomic power plant for industry that they are looking for a site for it.

Detroit Edison Co., which is teamed with Dow Chemical in studying the problem of atomic power, predicts it might be ready to build such a plant within a year. Heat from the plant would produce steam to run a conventional turbine. Existing Detroit power lines would be used. And Detroit Edison thinks the electricity could be produced at a competitive cost.

If Congress would approve such a plant, one could be built within two or three years for around 35 million dollars to supply electricity for a city of 100,000—this on the word of Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) who formerly served on the House Atomic Energy Committee. He told delegates of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association meeting in San Francisco that they ought to look into the idea.

The Atomic Energy Commission, a little more cautiously, puts the time limit at a "few years." It thinks costs of such a plant could be made competitive if the large

German Magazine Launches Campaign For National Army

By DON DOANE

MUNICH, Germany —A new German military magazine has launched a campaign for a West German national army instead of German troops in a European army.

Its editor claims the Germans could use the army in a trade with Russia to obtain reunification of divided Germany.

With an army of its own, he says, West Germany could win Russia's consent to pull out of East Germany and let it unite with West Germany in return for a German promise not to join military forces with the West.

Gaining Circulation
The magazine, Military-Political Forum, was founded by Ernst von Reichenau, brother of the late Nazi field marshal, Walter von Reichenau.

Von Reichenau withdrew after the magazine's first two issues when German newspapers accused him of working for Moscow and charged him with helping the Americans try German war criminals in Shanghai after the war.

Although Von Reichenau's announcement of withdrawal indicated he might return after "disposing" of these charges, the remaining staff members talk confidently of carrying on without him. They claim the magazine is gaining wide circulation.

The new editor is Anton Wickelmayer, once a Hitler youth leader and officer in the Nazis' brown-shirted Stormtroopers. An Army captain in the war, he calls himself a military student.

Wickelmayer still sports a short military haircut and clicks his heels when he shakes hands.

Von Reichenau opposed German entry into the European army, but it was Wickelmayer who developed the campaign for a national army. He said in an interview he favors a national army as the only hope of achieving the reunification of Germany.

Von Reichenau's sudden withdrawal from the magazine deepened the mystery surrounding him. Even the men who worked with him on the magazine say they cannot vouch for his past.

Wickelmayer said Von Reichenau told him he was an Army lieutenant in the first world war. In 1929 he left Germany, went first to Paris, then to Canton, where he engaged in the export-import business. Later he became a military adviser to South Chinese forces. When the Americans arrived at war's end he was interned but soon released to serve as an interpreter.

He denies he had anything to do with the trial of other Germans on war crimes charges in Shanghai. He made a slow return to Germany, arriving early in 1952. Some German newspapers charged that Von Reichenau formed some "Eastern" connections during his absence. "Von Reichenau lets the east wind blow," one paper headlined its story asking where he got the right to speak for Germany and German soldiers.

Wiretapping Urged To Track U. S. Spies

WASHINGTON —Rep. Keating (R-NY) has urged Congress to "unshackle" the hands of federal agents in their efforts to track down spies and traitors by okaying wiretapping in some instances.

Evidence obtained by wiretapping is now illegal in federal courts. Keating is author of a bill to allow the FBI and other U. S. investigative agencies to intercept telephone calls in the interest of national security.

"Invasion of privacy is repugnant to all Americans," he said in a statement yesterday, "and it should be. Nevertheless the safety of our nation and its people must be paramount."

Lone Lawgiver May Win Out On 2 Tough Michigan Problems

By JACK L. GREEN

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) has rushed in where not only angels but politicians fear to tread.

In one breath he has proposed to revise the schools' sacred sales tax diversion amendment and to take back the $50,000,000 veterans' trust fund.

Just how foolhardy can you get, politically speaking?

And yet Conlin's fellow legislators take off their hats to him for having the courage and intelligence to try these things in such way that he has both schoolmen and veterans talking rationally about his ideas with some prospects they may approve.

One Bad Flaw

The sales tax diversion amendment, whether it is good or bad basically, has always had one serious flaw.

That is the provision which says the state treasury must pay the schools each year 4.77 per cent of the sales tax collections for the previous year. The way it works out, actually, is that the percentage has to be figured on collections of TWO years previous.

How would you like to pay your rent on the basis of what you earned two years ago, but still had to go living and spend your earnings for living expenses in the meantime? You'd be in a fine pickle—and so is the state.

On the other half of the Conlin proposals, the legislature has always found it hard to convince people it ought to raise millions in more taxes when it has $50,000,000 tucked away in a side pocket. The earnings of the fund—about $1,200,000 a year—have gone to provide relief for needy veterans and support some veterans' programs.

Money For Veterans

What Conlin wants to do is this: He wants to ask the people to revise the sales tax diversion amendment to give the schools two cents out of every three cents of sales tax collected and drop the 4.77 per cent business. They would get $12,000,000 more a year this way, but they would have to absorb the cost of teachers' pensions which the state general fund now pays—when it is paid at all.

And he wants to take back the $50,000,000 trust fund to pay up what the state owes the schools now and can't pay, but to amend the constitution to earmark about $1,250,000 a year—the amount earned by the trust fund now—for the perpetual relief on needy veterans.

Thus the veterans would be assured of getting their money each year.

So far the big stumbling block is the school people.

They have given tentative and cautious approval but they are suspicious. They know they are putting a ceiling on the amount of money they can get from the state. At the same time they know that the present system is no good if the state hasn't got the money to pay them.

Legislators seem to think the veterans groups will go along if the school people do.

Conlin has promised to tie the two proposals together on the ballot so that one could not take effect without the other.

Conlin says if it isn't on the spring ballot, we might as well forget the whole thing.

So he sweats it out at the conference table—a lone lawmaker who has grappled single-handedly with two of the state's toughest problems and might still win out.

Steel Strike Clips Uncle Sam's Taxes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Uncle Sam appears to be taking a worse beating than the stockholders as a result of last summer's steel strike. Earnings reports for 1952, now pouring in, show that steel company profits fell around 22 per cent below the 1951 figures.

But tax payments for 1952 will be down about 69 per cent.

The returns to date indicate that the U. S. treasury may get around one billion dollars less from steel companies than it collected in income and excess profits taxes from them in 1951.

Refunds Run High

There is also a hefty tax refund indicated. Under the excess profits act, the companies because of the earnings drop in 1952 can get refunds on part of the excess profits tax paid on 1951 earnings. Reports to date show that these refunds will run well up in the millions.

Stockholders see the earnings of the companies they own dropping in 1952, but so far there has been no cut in dividend rates by the major companies.

Some other factors besides the strike caused the drop in earnings. Iron and steel companies spent more than one billion dollars last year to expand and improve their plants, the American Iron and Steel Institute reports.

A sizable part of this expansion will be productive this year. Last year it was an expense.

Earnings Drop

For another thing, while the last three months of 1952 showed most of the companies setting new records for output and for dollar volume of sales helped by the price hike that followed the strike only a few of the companies also show better earnings than in the final three months of 1951.

Steel officials this week have been stressing that their costs including the wage hike that ended the strike went up even more than their sales volume.

Twelve companies—including seven of the largest—have reported earnings so far. Combined these total $369,530,562. This was a drop of $107,522,968, or 22.5 per cent, from their 1951 profit total of $477,053,530.

Congressional Quiz

By Congressional Quarterly

1. Q—President Eisenhower caused a mild sensation when he decided to abandon the traditional top hat and wear a Homburg at his inauguration. Have other Presidents made sartorial news at their inaugurations?

A—At least one did. President George Washington wore a suit made by the budding clothing industry of the new nation.

2. Q—Have inauguration ceremonies always taken place outside on the east portico of the Capitol where President Eisenhower was sworn in?

A—No. The custom began with Andrew Jackson in 1829. Most, but not all of the inaugurations since that time have taken place on this location. The first three inaugurations were not even held in Washington. New York and Philadelphia were the scenes of inaugurations before Washington, D. C., became the nation's capital in 1800.

3. Q—What was the first bill to be introduced in the 83rd Congress?

A—A measure aimed at reducing personal income taxes sponsored by Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-N. Y.) was introduced in the House Jan. 3, the opening day of Congress. It was given the number HR 1, and was among 1,117 measures—bills and resolutions—that were dropped into the legislative hopper that day. House measures are not introduced from the floor as is done in the Senate.

4. Q—What was the first Senate bill introduced in the 83rd Congress?

A—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) offered S. 1, to establish a Federal Commission on Civil Rights and Privileges and provide for the assurance of civil rights of all individuals and for elimination of discrimination in employment because of race, creed or color. This bill was introduced Jan. 7, the first day the Senate permitted introduction of legislation. Although this was the first Senate bill, actually it was not the first legislation introduced. The first measure (S. J. Res. 1), a joint resolution, was introduced by John W. Bricker (R-Ohio). He submitted the resolution on behalf of himself and several other Senators. It proposed an amendment to the Constitution relative to the making of treaties and executive agreements.

Debts Of Americans Near 24 Billions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The personal debts of Americans added up to $23,975,000,000 at the end of last year, the Federal Reserve Board says.

It reported yesterday that consumer credit jumped 3 1/3 billion dollars during 1952. That was more than six times the 1951 increase.

Consumer installment credit increased $2,996,000,000 during 1952 to reach a total of 16 1/2 billion dollars.

Non-installment credit to individuals was $7,469,000,000 at the end of the year. Of this total, charge accounts made up $4,768,000,000.

Village Landmark Saved By Friends

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP)—When the village board recently found itself hard-pressed for funds to repair the village clock in the Presbyterian Church tower, out-of-town help saved the day.

John W. Richardson of White Plains sent word that he would put up $600 of the estimated $1,800 repair cost because as a boy at the village school he learned to tell time by the village clock. Another Goshen native, Dr. C. Hudson Thompson, offered to match the amount as a memorial to a beloved uncle, former organist at the church. The village now thinks it may be able to scrape up the other $600 if sentiment does not move other individuals to contribute.

It was just 100 years ago that subscribers to a town clock fund first decided to give a timepiece to the village.

Cortisone Fights Breast Cancer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A new operation for relief of breast cancer and involving cortisone was hailed today by surgeons attending the 17th annual international medical assembly here.

The operation was described yesterday by Col. Warner F. Bowers, chief of surgical service at Brooke Army Hospital here.

It involves removal of the adrenal glands and was performed for the first time at Brooke only three weeks ago. The patient, who had been bedfast and in constant, great pain, is now walking, enjoying her food, and planning a future, Col. Bowers said.

He explained that removal of the glands, like removal of the ovaries, reduces stimulation of certain types of cancer, especially those of the breast. Only one hormone of the adrenals is necessary for life, he said, and that is cortisone. It was only when it became chemically possible to produce cortisone in quantity, he continued, that full removal of the adrenal glands became possible.

"Most important," Col. Bowers emphasized, "is the proper selection of patients and careful follow-up management."

Adrenal hormones are administered before surgery and continued after the operation, gradually being decreased until only small "maintenance" doses of cortisone must be taken daily for the rest of the patient's life.

Ancient Sea Wall Found Near Italy

RAVENNA, Italy (AP)—Fishermen dragging nets along the Adriatic coast north of here found what is believed to be the now-submerged sea wall which sheltered ancient Rome's Adriatic fleet.

The fishermen said they could see almost 100 feet of the huge stone wall putting up through the sandy bottom a mile and a half offshore in 25 feet of water.

The location is just south of the shifting mouths of the Po River, where imperial Rome's fleet guarding the upper Adriatic is believed to have been based in the time of Caesar Augustus.

It calls for the rehabilitation of vocational agricultural and trade schools, home economics courses, development of basic education, specialized teachers' training and rehabilitation of several colleges.

'Tumbledown Shack' Is Not Always Romantic - - -

are Hopkinsville's first apartment houses. The 134 units will rent for as little as $15 a month, with $35 the maximum. Rents are based on family income, not the size of the apartments. A family could conceivably have a six-room apartment for $15 a month.

Cartoonist Suddenly Becomes Evangelist

By HOWARD C. HEYN

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Chuck Templeton says he doesn't know exactly how it happened. He was happy in his job as a sports cartoonist because his chief enthusiasms were athletics and drawing.

Yet overnight he found a new career.

The Rev. Charles B. Templeton, at 38, is an evangelist whose meetings have attracted hundreds of thousands in Canada, the United States, Mexico and Europe. He is the first evangelist ever engaged by the National Council of Churches. He has just completed a nationwide series of television sermons.

Something Missing

Visiting relatives here recently he recalled his days with the sports staff of the Toronto Globe and Mail, and the first stirrings of religious fervor which changed the course of his life.

"I certainly wasn't frustrated; I enjoyed my work tremendously," he said, "but one night when I got home I suddenly had a feeling that something was missing."

"The first thing I knew I was down on my knees praying. Up to that time I could not recall any serious religious tendencies or needs."

This was only a beginning. But after that first prayer Templeton knew pretty much what he wanted to do. He became a Nazarene preacher—one of the most dynamic in the field today.

No Emotional Jag

Templeton is married. He is a good looking, candid and amiable man who does not dramatize his own sincerity. He has a special dislike for the awesome approach or unctuous manner.

In his present work for the National Council of Churches, which is interdenominational, he says the principal goal aside from evangelism is to inspire a strong community of spirit among the various faiths.

"We do not seek union of the churches," he said. "Neither do we seek uniformity. We do seek unity—a common endeavor in the cause of Christianity."

Theologically, Templeton and the council are making an intellectual appeal "to put evangelism back in the heart of the church, where it belongs."

"We feel that many excesses have been committed in the name of evangelism," he said. "In some cases the old-time methods have induced an emotional jag which, in my view, is not only confusing but harmful."

War In Korea Hurts Red China's Economy

HONG KONG (AP)—The independent Chinese press here has received numerous reports from underground correspondents in South China that say the pinch of the Korean War is finally catching up with the Communist government.

One story tells of a recent order by the Red governor of Kwangtung province which cuts administrative expenses by 20 to 30 per cent. A "working team" of economic and financial experts from Hankow has reportedly gone south to help Kwangtung and Kwangsi trim their governmental budgets.

'Get-Out-Vote' Matchbooks Used

NEW YORK (AP)—The presidential election campaign has been somewhat of a smoker's delight with scores of business firms, local chambers of commerce and civic groups sponsoring more than three million get-out-the-vote matchbooks.

The Match Industry information bureau says one of the largest single order of 15,000 matchbooks was from the Oklahoma Farm Bureau for distribution at the state fair. A radio station in Almagordo, N. M., also gave away 15,000.

The get-out-the-vote message appeared on the front and back covers where the user could see it each time he struck one of the 20 matches. The matchbooks were designed by the Advertising Council as part of the educational program of the American Heritage Foundation.

India Rebukes Men Who Cheered Mao

NEW DELHI (AP)—India's central government has informed all state governments that communications with foreign powers should be handled only by the central authorities.

Home Minister K. N. Katju disclosed this action in Parliament, replying to inquiries about action against two ministers of the Communist-supported Patiala princely union government who sent congratulatory messages to Red China's Mao Tze-Tung.

TEEN TALK

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Young people love to ask questions. A mail bag chock full of their best puzzlers makes interesting reading. Problems are varied, so perhaps if some of them are answered here, other young adults might find a cue:

Question: What is a good makeup to cover pimples?

Answer: It is not wise to cover face blemishes with makeup, unless a very exceptional date is in the offing. If the skin condition is bad, a dermatologist and doctor should be consulted. On the other hand, if the condition is temporary, and there is time before the date to clear the skin, a light diet excluding fats, sweets, gravies and ice cream for a week or so before the big event will help smooth the skin. Use a good medicated lotion at night while blemishes are apparent.

Question: Are there opportunities in a small town to help prepare one for a television career?

Answer: It isn't necessary to make tracks for New York in order to get started on a television career. William C. Molyneux, NBC staff scene designer, suggests that small stations sometimes can get you off to the best start. Mr. Molyneux, who is in his twenties, got his first TV job following work as a scenic designer in college productions on a small Milwaukee station. He reminds us that "training for the more technical aspects of work in TV can be acquired near home in trade schools, business schools or even by correspondence course." He points out that imaginative young announcers, research workers, writers, musicians, costume designers, directors, script-girls, coordinators, receptionists, typists, secretaries often get an initial job in their home town or in the nearest city that boasts a TV station, without the expense or risk of coming to New York. After they click the risk is not so great.

Question: Could you suggest a new party dish that doesn't include hamburgers? My crowd is bored with them in every shape and size.

Answer: How about a casserole of hot dogs and sauerkraut? This is called "Fifteen Minute Kraut-furter Bake" and kids who have tried it say it really is a tasty treat and economical, too.

Combine 1 No. 2 1/2 can of sauerkraut, one-quarter cup bacon drippings and one-half teaspoon paprika, mixing thoroughly in a bowl. Add 2 tablespoons minced onion to 3 cups seasoned mashed potatoes while whipping them. Place sauerkraut mixture in 22-quart casserole, arranging frankfurters on top. Pile fluffy mashed potatoes on top around sides. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 to 15 minutes, or until frankfurters are done. Serve immediately.

This recipe calls for from 4 to 8 frankfurters. Increase it proportionately for a large crowd. This dish can be all ready to put in the oven before the gang arrives.

Question: A boy took me out several times, and then dropped me cold. I haven't heard from him in a month, and wondered if it would be o.k. if I wrote him a note asking why?

Answer: It doesn't sound like a good idea unless of course you know that your actions were the reason for his attitude. If, for instance, you exhausted his wallet by ordering expensive food or entertainment, he might be justified in calling the whole thing off. Your actions in other ways — such as table hopping, flirting or temperamental — might be other reasons he took to the hills. In that case, if you know the reason, you might write him a pleasant note inviting him to your home for an evening at which time (if the family cooperates) you might find an opportunity to explain.

But if the boy dropped out of the picture for a reason you cannot fathom, it is not in good taste to try to further the companionship.

Beef Buying Requires Planning

COOKING FOR TWO, you can easily get four tasteful beef dishes from one five-pound, wedge-bone, sirloin steak.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

If you are cooking just for two and want good beef dishes within your budget, this "case history" will guide you.

"In giving tips for meats for the 'twosome' to my daughter, who was a June bride," Beth Bailey McLean, co-author of Martha Logan's Meat Cookbook, told me, "I've suggested that she purchase a family-sized, wedge-bone, sirloin cut between 1 1/2 to 2 inches thick."

"While this cut, which weighs approximately 5 pounds, may appear to be large, it actually is an economical and usable cut which will provide four hearty and interesting meat servings for two people."

For a festive meal, two boneless steaks may be cut from the sizeable, tender, center steak muscle. These steaks will weigh approximately 3 1/2-pound each. This tender muscle is easily identified in top-grade beef for it is well outlined by fat marbling and tissue.

The remainder of the steak will amount to more than two pounds of meat after the bone and fat trimmings have been removed. Cut two thirds of this meat into 1/2-inch strips and the rest of the meat in 1-inch cubes.

Husband's Business Slow, Wife Must Learn Patience

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.
No business is built up overnight. It takes time and hard work to make it profitable. This wife should be patient or stands to lose all their savings:

(Q) "My husband is in business for himself but doesn't seem to get any place. He just seems to make about enough money to eat. I don't get enough to buy clothes for myself or the children, or for anything else. I really feel he would be better off to go out and get a job. This has been going on for the last two years. I have even helped him pay the bills, the rent, the car insurance, and drew $2,000 out of the bank for the house. He tells me I'll get it all back but he doesn't give me anything to save. If I spend money, he acts as if I am committing a crime. What shall I do?"

(A) It is a bit late now to feel abused because you can't have all you want. Surely you realized when your husband decided to go into business for himself that it would mean a period of sacrifice for the whole family until the business got started.

That was the time to urge him to get a job instead of starting in business for himself. If he pulled up stakes now and gave up the business, he would stand to lose all the money he put into it. Furthermore, he would feel defeated and would hold you to blame for it.

Two years is a very short time to get a business started. If you can see some improvement from month to month, as compared with the same months last year and a year ago, then you should have confidence that your husband will be successful. If, on the other hand, there is no improvement, or if he is making less than he did at first, then it is questionable if he is wise to continue. You would likely lose all you had if you did not take action before too late.

Try to be a good sport about this temporary restriction in your income. This may readily be the last big pull and, when it is over, you may find yourself in a better position than you ever were before. Bolster up your husband's courage and let him know you are back of him, regardless of the outcome.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with family problem. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Colonial Lighting Will Be Subject Of Detroit Lecture

"Colonial Lighting" will be the subject of the third in a series of Michigan Antiques Lectures at The Henry Ford Museum on Friday Feb. 6, at 8:30 p. m., A. K. Mills, executive director, announced today.

Charles F. Montgomery, associate curator of the Henry Francis du Pont Winterthur Museum, will be the speaker.

The series is being sponsored by the Museum for the "mutual enjoyment and benefit of collectors and dealers of the Greater Detroit area who are interested in the study of antiques," according to Mills.

Montgomery will discuss period settings and their corresponding styles in lighting fixtures and will illustrate his talk with colored slides showing how these ideas have been incorporated into the Winterthur Rooms.

On lecture nights, the Fine Arts Galleries of the Museum will be opened at 7:30 p. m. for all subscribers to the Michigan Antiques Lectures and their guests.

Mills said that "enthusiastic local response to the opening lectures by Alice Winchester, editor of Antiques Magazine in October and Hensleigh C. Wedgwood in November emphasized the rising interest in American antiques in the mid-west."

You can air-dry dishes satisfactorily if you put them on a draining rack after you have washed them. To do the best job of washing, use hot sudsy water and then rinse with very hot water.

Zimmel has been with the city for 30 years, first being employed in 1923. He was with the street and water department the entire time. Previous to joining the city forces he spent 12 years with J. T. Whybrew who was operating a draying business and before that worked on the Soo Line docks.

Bouchard entered the employ of the city in 1933 and had been with street department for 20 straight years. He was a machine operator and was expert in the operating of heavy equipment.

U. P. Golden Gloves Tourney Opens Tonight

Large Field Entered, Finals Tuesday Night

The opening matches of the 1953 Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves boxing tournament will be fought tonight at the Junior High School gymnasium in Escanaba, starting at 8:15. Approximately 45 boxers from all sections of the Peninsula will compete in the amateur boxing classic.

Boxers will weight in at four o'clock this afternoon at the Junior High School and pairings will be drawn after the weigh-in. All boxers will submit to physical examinations.

The number of bouts to be presented tonight and Tuesday night, when the finals will be held, will be determined on the basis of the weigh-ins and entries in various weight divisions. However, there will be upwards of 15 bouts each night.

Team Entries

Boxing teams from Menominee-Marquette, Manistique, Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Sault Ste. Marie and Escanaba will compete in the tournament. One entry has been received from Iron Mountain. An Ironwood entry, Tom Jennings, withdrew this morning because of illness.

As a special feature of tonight's program Jim LaCourse, Marinette's clever rope skipping artist, will present a rope skipping exhibition.

Jim Mancil, Iron Mountain, will referee the bouts and judges will be George Hurley, Al Jacobson, Marquette; George Grenholm, Escanaba. Announcer will be Art Goulais, Escanaba. Timekeepers will be members of the coaching staff of the Escanaba High School.

All bouts will be three rounds to a decision. Rounds will be two minutes each.

Finals Tuesday

The weight classes are 112 pounds, 118 pounds, 126 pounds, 136 pounds, 147 pounds, 160 pounds, 175 pounds and heavy-weight, both novice and open divisions. Most of the boxers in the tournament, as usual, are in the novice class.

Champions will be crowned Tuesday night and Wednesday morning the champions will leave for Milwaukee to compete Thursday night in the Wisconsin Golden Gloves, sponsored by the Milwaukee Journal.

The Upper Peninsula tournament is sponsored jointly by the Escanaba Lions Club and Escanaba Daily Press.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, both general admission and reserved seats. The north balcony is for students.

Ready To Break Track Records

BOSTON (AP)—Mal Whitfield, the fleet-footed middle distance ace, and Horace Ashenfelter, the durable FBI-agent, took aim on new records today as the top indoor tracksters moved on to New York for the New York A. C. meet Saturday at Madison Square Garden.

The 28-year-old Whitfield looks like a sure bet to break the 1:10.2 indoor record for 600 yards. He tied the mark held jointly by John Eorican and Hugh Short, while romping to an easy victory in the Boston A. A. games Saturday.

Ashenfelter turned in one of his best performances in winning the Billings two mile in 8:53 without being pressed and is ready for an all-out assault on Fred Wilt's record of 8:50.7.

Other winners in the 64th B. A. A. competition included Harrison Dillard, who won his 27th indoor race by taking the 45-yard hurdles event (5.5), Arthur Bragg in the 50-yard dash (5.9), Carl Joyce in the "1000" (2:11.9), Bob Richards in the pole vault (15 ft.) and Ken Wiesner in the high jump (6-8 3/4).

CYO Cagers Split In Sunday Doubleheader

MANISTIQUE—The Manistique CYO basketball team split a doubleheader here Sunday afternoon, losing the preliminary to the Trenary, all-stars 61-46 and coming back to defeat the Iron Mountain CYO in the second game by a 31-58 count.

Tuivo Aho led Trenary with 21 points while Don Carlson topped the CYO with nine.

Don St. John, playing his last game for the CYO before going into service, hit 20 points in the second clash. Joe Steiner scored 27 for Iron Mountain. It was the first Iron Mountain defeat this season. The teams will meet again in Iron Mountain in the near future.

In This Corner

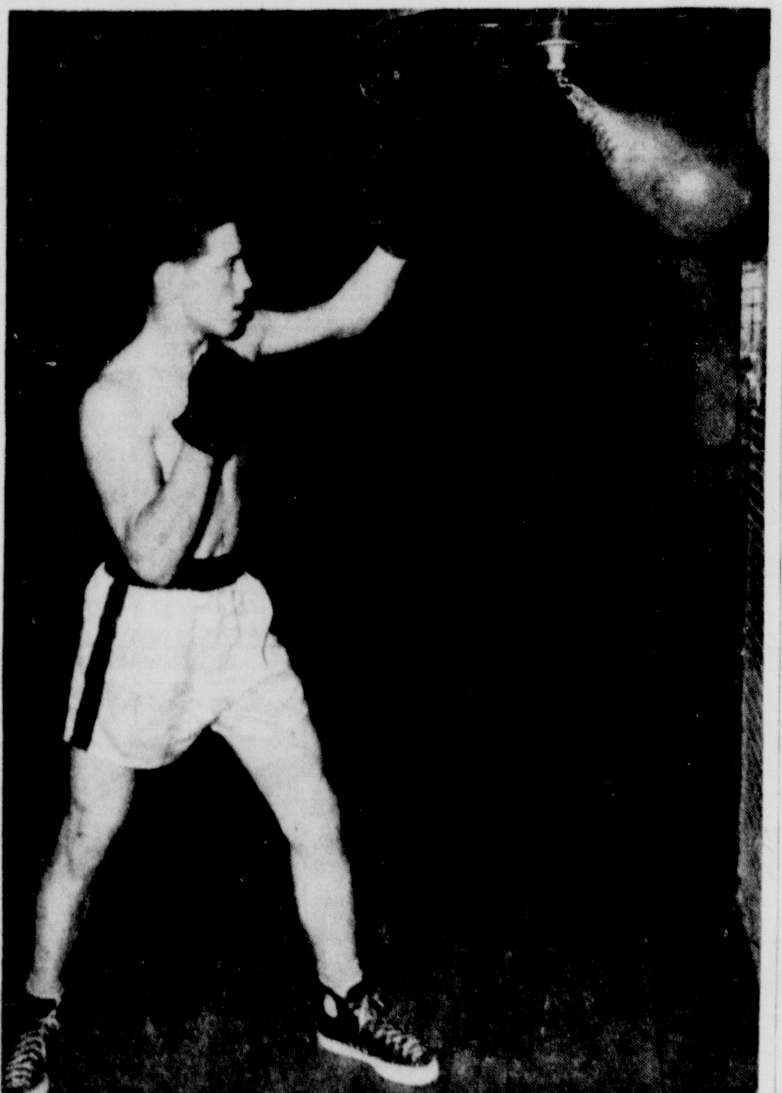

With Ray Crandall

Tonight's the night the simon-pures start swinging in the annual Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves championship tournament at the Escanaba Junior High... At stake for the amateur boxers will be championship and runner-up trophies, and an expense-paid trip to the Milwaukee Journal tournament for the champions... All entries in the tourney here will also receive Golden Gloves emblems.

For sheer competitive spirit there is probably no other sport that compares with the Golden Gloves action... The annual tournament here draws heavily from fans throughout the Upper Peninsula who know that they always see a good show when the Golden Gloves climb into the ring... This year's field of boxers is one of the largest in recent years and competition will be especially strong in the lighter classes... Several of last year's headlines will be back and dozens of newcomers will be in action for the first time... So if you're looking for action tonight and tomorrow night, don't miss the free-swinging feature at the Junior High... It's going to be good.

There was plenty of emphasis on youth when the Escanaba and Marquette high school basketball teams took the floor here Saturday night... Coach Stan Sosnowski started two sophomores and three juniors... Esby coach Burt Gustafson opened with two seniors and three juniors and had one sophomore in action.

Three of the Upper Peninsula's undefeated basketball teams survived weekend play, but the Ironwood Red Devils fell by the wayside after 10 straight victories... Ashland measured Ironwood 67-55... Manistique, Ishpeming and Pickford posted wins to keep their undefeated records intact.

FINAL SESSION—Escanaba novice lightweight Ronald Vanderlinden works out on the speed bag in a final session before the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves tournament which gets under way tonight at the Escanaba Junior High gym. Vanderlinden is one of seven Escanaba entries in the tournament. He will be entering the Golden Gloves ring for the first time tonight. (Daily Press Photo)

Plan Davey's Strategy For Gavilan Title Go

By TOM BRANAGAN

CHICAGO (AP)—A possible "pattern of strategy" for lifting Kid Gavilan's welterweight crown Feb. 11 emerged over the weekend at Chuck Davey's training camp.

The undefeated challenger was working mainly on two items.

1. A system for weathering the Cuban Kead's powerful flurries, including if necessary Gavilan's much-publicized "bolo punch," and

2. Keeping the pressure on Gavilan every other second of their scheduled 15-round Chicago Stadium championship match.

A succession of hard-swinging sparmates has been flailing at Davey in what is hoped has been a reasonable imitation of the Gavilan attack. They are under instructions to go hard—a hair short of the "hit"—against the balding ex-collegian from Michigan State.

Work On Defense

Manager Hector Knowles and trainer Issy Kline, meanwhile, are trying to improve Davey's defense. They say they want him to cover up, fast, when Gavilan tears in, then—when his bursts are spent—force the Kid back with a swift counterattack.

In addition, Knowles and Kline say they are changing their south-paw's normal offensive tactics somewhat. They say they want him to keep on top of Gavilan as much as possible.

"Usually Chuck's best style is in and out," says Knowles. "We want him in more for this one. Gavilan is best when he can stand away for those long punches. Chuck has got to keep inside of them and so he's got to keep pressing in there."

Don't Expect KO

Bobby Boyd, Chicago welterweight who meets Sammy Massran of Pittsburgh in tonight's eight-round Rainbow Arena feature, is one of the partners who's been working with Davey. He punches hard, as do several others—Johnny Brown, Fred Evans, Tommy Maddox—selected especially for Davey in his championship chance.

No one in Davey's comfortable Tam O'Shanter Country Club quarters is predicting anything like a knockout on behalf of their man. Kline even goes so far as to say:

"If Chuck knocks him out, he not only will surprise me, he'll surprise himself."

Gavilan, who arrives Thursday for his Summit, N. J. headquarters, says he'll KO the challenger within seven or eight rounds.

Blue Master is the name Owner A. W. Abbott picked for the full-blooded brother to Blue Man.

Eskymos In Easy 61-43 Cage Win Over Redmen

Coach Burt Gustafson's Escanaba Eskymos turned in an easy 61-43 victory over an outclassed Marquette Redman quint here Saturday night.

The Eskymos displayed poise and versatility in trimming Marquette for the second time this season. The youthful Redman cagers were never in contention.

Gustafson opened with a shuffled starting lineup of Dick Peterson, Jim Bolin, Pat McDonough, Fred Boddy and Bill LeMire. All Eskymos on the squad saw action in the one-sided game.

Center Dick Peterson paced the Escanaba attack with 18 points. Fred Boddy, operating at a guard post, pumped in 15 for the Eskymos as they notched their sixth victory in 11 starts this season.

The Eskymos dropped in 23 of 35 free throw attempts while Marquette was converting 19 of 36.

The Escanaba Bee team registered a 68-52 win in the preliminary.

Bark River Turns In Cage Win Over Baraga

The Bark River Broncos rebounded from their defeat at the hands of the St. Joe Trojans to post a 54-44 Saturday night victory over Marquette Baraga at the Bonitas gym Saturday night.

Bronco Joe LaVigne scored the first basket and the Bark River cagers were never behind after an 11-8 first period edge. LaVigne took scoring honors for the night with 17 points. Bureau led Baraga with 14.

The game was featured by control style play, especially on Baraga's part, and action was slowed down considerably. The Broncos controlled rebounds on both boards and hit the bucket from the field consistently.

Baraga managed to pull within four points several times but was never able to close the gap.

The Bronco Bee team lost the preliminary 37-22.

Cooks Perched Atop Central Cage League

League basketball conference standings will get a stern test this week. Coach Bob Thibault's cagers are in action twice, at Rapid River tonight and at Rock Friday night.

Cooks moved out in front last week for the first time by trouncing Perkins and Eben. Perkins also lost to Rapid River last week.

In addition to the two games this week, Cooks has yet to face Bark River in league play.

Perkins has Bark River, Nahma and Rock on its league slate. Nahma, in third place with five wins and three defeats, has games remaining with Eben, Trenary, Perkins and Rapid River.

The Central League championship is decided on a percentage basis, as all teams do not play the same number of games.

Minnesota Guard Third In Cage Race

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Mencil, Minnesota's 5 foot 11 inch guard, hopped into third place in Big Ten all-game scoring standing with two solid performances last week.

Mencil popped in 24 points in a 77-72 Gopher victory over Purdue last Monday and followed with a 19-point effort as Minnesota lost to Michigan State 64-60 Saturday.

That gave him an average of 18.5 points a game for 14 conference and nonconference contests and enabled him to displace Illinois' idle Johnny Kerr as third top scorer. Kerr has an 18.1 average for 11 games.

Indiana's Don Schlundt, leading the Big Ten with a 22.4 average for 11 games, didn't play during the week. Paul Ebert of Ohio State, who has been battling Schlundt for the lead virtually all season, moved up a little by scoring 24 points in his lone appearance, against Northwestern. Ebert has a 21.2 figure for 12 games.

Schlundt continued atop standings for Big Ten appearance only. In eight conference contests he has an even 25-point-a-game figure. Ebert, in nine Big Ten games, has averaged 22.3.

Seton Hall Wins 21st, Nine More On Schedule

Eye Unbeaten Cage Record

By BEN PHLEGAR

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine games in the next 30 days will show whether a 1953 model basketball team can go through a season undefeated.

Seton Hall University from South Orange, N. J., has won its first 21 games. If it can win its remaining nine contests it will become the first team ever to go unbeaten through a 30-game schedule against major opposition.

The last school to turn in a perfect card for regular season games was Columbia in 1951-52. The Lions won 22 in a row, then bowed to Illinois in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

Only one other club has gone all the way unbeaten since college basketball went big time. That was Army against the war-weakened squads of 1943-44. And the Cadets played only 15 games.

Seton Hall, for the past two weeks ranked first in the country in the Associated Press poll, picked up its 21st triumph Saturday night at Philadelphia, where it whipped Villanova, 84-76.

This week it helps bring the college game back to Madison Square Garden for the first time in a month when it meets St. Bonaventure in half of a twin bill that includes St. John's of Brooklyn against Manhattan College.

After St. Bonaventure, Seton Hall will tangle with Siena, Muhlenberg, Villanova, Loyola of Chicago, Baldwin-Wallace, Dayton, Louisville and John Carroll.

Action Speeds Up
With midyear examinations generally over, basketball activity speeds up this week. More than 100 major games are scheduled for Saturday night alone.

All but one of the 10 top-ranking teams will be busy. De Paul, No. 10, is the only exception as it rests on its laurels after trouncing Notre Dame Saturday night, 83-56.

Second-ranked Indiana returns after a week's layoff, meeting Butler University tonight and Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., Saturday.

Washington, No. 3, comes back to Stateside competition after a three-game winning junket to Hawaii and plays host to lowly Washington State Friday and Saturday night.

La Salle, No. 4, entertains Duquesne Saturday night and Kansas State, No. 5, visits Nebraska the same night.

Illini Face Badgers
Illinois, No. 6, has a date tonight with De Pauw of Indiana and on Saturday night resumes Big Ten competition against Wisconsin.

Fordham, No. 7, has games Tuesday against Colgate and Saturday against Villanova. Oklahoma A&M, No. 8, will be at home to Detroit tonight and to St. Louis Saturday.

Ninth-ranked Western Kentucky plays three times—tonight against Bowling Green, Wednesday against Dayton and then Saturday against Eastern Kentucky in a state grudge battle. Eastern Kentucky won their first meeting two weeks ago.

Bolt Drops Temper, Snares Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Relentless, almost faultless golf gave aggressive Tommy Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., the championship in the $10,000 Tucson Open yesterday and added $2,000 to his bankroll.

The temperamental Tommy went over par only once during four days of play. Sixteen birdies gave him a 72-hole total of 65-68-66-66—265 for the par 70, 6,402-yard El Rio Golf and Country Club course. He showed no signs of his famous temper when he accidentally touched the ball on the ninth fairway and penalized himself a stroke.

Dream Try

Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., a veteran who may soon be out of a job for the first time since 1934, almost made a strange dream come true as he fought back on the final nine holes to come within one stroke of the winner and collect $1,400.

Harper said about a month ago a friend of a friend dreamed he (Harper) had won the 1952 Tucson Open. The friend said his pal had had other dreams come true. So Harper hopped on a plane and flew out here to play in his first tourney since last August despite a painful arm injury.

"The dream was the whole reason I came," he said. "It almost came true."

Court Closing

Harper shot three 66s and one 68 for a total of 266, better than the 267 total that won for him here in 1950. He said the Portsmouth City course, where he is pro, is the site of a proposed high school and will be closed.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., and Tony Holguin of Midlothian, Ill., the Spanish-American winner of the Mexican Open in 1949 and 1950, finished in a third-place tie. Each won $920.

Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill.; Jerry Barber, Lacombe, Calif.; Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y.; and Jack Harden, El Paso, Tex., got $555 apiece for a total of 270.

Rochester Duo Still In Action

(By The Associated Press)

The Rochester Royals' backcourt aces, Bob Davies and Bobby Wanzer served notice on the National Basketball Association that they are still in business.

The word in basketball circles was that Davies and Wanzer had slipped. But the recent play of the Rochester pair, former Seton Hall greats, has dispelled such talk.

With Wanzer scoring 30 points and Davies adding 19, the Royals Sunday whipped the Boston Celtics, 109-86, in the nightcap of a doubleheader at Boston.

In the opener, the New York Knickerbockers won their seventh straight, defeating the Philadelphia Warriors paced by Connie Simmons with 19 points.

The Syracuse Nationals spanked the Baltimore Bullets, 94-79, as Dolph Schayes scored 22 points. The Minneapolis Lakers scored a 92-76 victory over Fort Wayne's Pistons.

Braves, Cincinnati Reds Make Bid For Ralph Kiner

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—If Ralph Kiner, the National League's home run king for the last seven years, leaves the Pittsburgh Pirates he will, in all probability, don the uniform of either the Cincinnati Reds or the Boston Braves.

Out of the wave of reports circulated during the major league meetings here over the weekend came these two definite facts concerning a deal for the 30-year-old slugger:

1. The Reds have offered Pittsburgh five players, valued by Vice President Gabe Paul of Cincinnati at $300,000, for Kiner.

Long List

2. The Braves have handed Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pirates, a long list of players whom they are willing to include in a deal for the home run hitter.

There were other reports the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phillies also were interested in Kiner but they were denied by top club officials. And personnel director of the Chicago Cubs, offering $200,000.

The offers of the Reds and Braves fit in with Rickey's pattern of disposing of top-notch players just a little past their peak and rebuilding with younger talent.

Rickey, the pastmaster at double talk, declined to say what players had been offered or even with what clubs he had discussed a possible deal.

No Cash Wanted

"Let's put it this way," said Rickey. "A deal for Kiner definitely is contemplated and is nearer completion than 24 hours ago but it will not be completed as soon as another 24 hours."

"I am not interested in cash. I want young players who can help us. That is the only reason Kiner is on the market."

Paul declined to identify the Reds' players but said they were all highly regarded and could play regularly for Pittsburgh. And he added that Kiner's reported salary of $90,000 last year doesn't worry him even though the figures show Ralph never has hit well in Cincinnati's Crosley Field.

"Any investment that pays a dividend is a good investment," Paul said. "Kiner would more than make up for his salary by his ability to draw people in at the gate.

Trading Material

"If Kiner doesn't pan out with our club, he's still a good commodity for another club that can use his talents. He's definitely worth a gamble."

Paul hastened to explain, however, that the Reds don't want Kiner merely for trading material.

John Quinn, general manager of the Braves, said he had talked with Rickey about Kiner and turned over a long list of players for study.

"If he is interested in any of them, then we'll tell him how many we are willing to trade for Kiner," Quinn added.

Big Ten Basketball To Hit Heavy Pace

CHICAGO (AP)—Indiana's title-minded Hoosiers and their number one Big Ten contender, Illinois, return to basketball duty tonight fresh from a two-week layoff.

Both teams play warmup games with nonconference opponents before diving into the rugged home stretch of the 18-game league program.

Indiana, undefeated through eight Big Ten games, plays Butler on the Hoosier floor. The Illini, who've dropped two of their eight conference contests, entertain DePaul.

Their last appearances were on Jan. 19. Indiana beat Purdue 88-75 and Illinois took Michigan State 76-64 that night. Mid-year examinations occasioned the two-week recess.

Minnesota, displaced from third spot Saturday by Michigan State 64-60, is at Northwestern and Purdue at Ohio State in conference games tonight.

After tonight's play, nonconference opponents on Big Ten schedules number only two, Pittsburgh against Ohio State Feb. 14 and Notre Dame against Michigan State Feb. 16.

All other games remaining for conference teams are strictly Big Ten affairs.

The concentrated league action picks up Saturday with four arguments on tap: Illinois at Wisconsin, Indiana at Northwestern, Michigan State at Ohio State and Purdue at Minnesota.

The Canadian pipe line through the Upper Peninsula, scheduled to be completed by next November, will pass through the northwest city limits of Manistique, according to a preliminary survey map on file with G. Leslie Bouschor, county clerk.

The 30-inch pipe for carrying crude petroleum from Edmonton to Sarnia will enter Schoolcraft County one and one-half miles north of Cooks, according to the preliminary survey.

The line will then extend due east, running slightly south of the U and I Club to a curve in old US-2 near the Indian Lake State Park turn-off.

To Cross Rivers

The pipe will then swing north-easterly, crossing the city limits near the intersection of N. Fifth St. and State Road. Continuing in the same general direction it will cross Indian River slightly above the M. and L. S. railroad bridge and the Manistique River in the southern part of section 31, township 42 north, range 15 west.

The line will then swing due east to a point a short distance south of Marblehead Lake. It will then run northeasterly south of Palmer and Merwin lakes, coming close to US-2 near Blaney. It will cross M-77 between US-2 and Blaney, and continue easterly parallel to US-2 past Engadine.

Although much of the land the pipe will cross in the Upper Peninsula is reported to be state-owned, in Schoolcraft County virtually 70 percent of the property it will extend over is owned by private individuals or firms.

The pipe will be laid in a ditch 40 inches wide and seven feet deep.

Start Digging in Spring

The Bechtel Corporation is in general charge of construction for the Interprovincial Pipeline Company of Canada. Two stretches of the line extending west and east of Crystal Falls will be laid by Anderson Brothers' Corporation, of Houston, Tex. The Texas firm will construct the line east to Isabella.

It has not been learned here whether a contract for stretches east of Isabella and through Schoolcraft County has been let.

Construction is expected to start in the spring as soon as frost leaves the grounds. Various stretches of the line will be under construction simultaneously so that the project can be completed by next November. It will be capable of delivering approximately 300,000 barrels of crude oil daily.

'Operation Smack' Was Necessity, Says Korean Commander

WITH THE U. S. 7th DIVISION, Korea (AP)—The man who commanded the ground assault in Operation Smack said today the attack was necessary and that his outfit would make raids of the same kind in the future.

Maj. Warren Phillips of Eugene, Ore., commander of an infantry battalion, said the ire sparked in the U. S. Congress over the operation was "uncalled for and probably due to a lack of civilian understanding of what we did."

Phillips said his outfit had made several previous attempts to get a prisoner in the T-Bone Hill area west of Chorwon and had failed. He said the assault was planned to take advantage of an Air Force bombing of T-Bone which already had been planned.

Air Support Heavy
"It was decided by people higher than me that this would be an excellent time to take a prisoner by force," Phillips said. Because the infantry assault was co-ordinated with the air effort, there was a great deal of planning, he added. No Communist prisoners were captured in the operation. The Eighth Army officially announced American casualties as three killed and 61 wounded.

The major said other raids had been more costly than Operation Smack so far as casualties were concerned and that the large amount of air support cut down casualties in last Sunday's action.

"It was an attempt by us to capitalize on the additional air power that was being put in there," Phillips said.

The major, 32, said he directed the infantry assault from an observation post 1,000 yards away.

Phillips said he had a guard at the door of his bunker to keep any visitors from interfering with the operation.

He said Allied air and artillery "completely smothered" Communist artillery and mortar fire, cutting down the number of casualties.

No Prisoners

But he added that Communist grenades and small arms fire prevented the infantry from taking a prisoner.

Phillips said "we are going to make" similar raids again but "we probably won't have as much air support and we probably won't have the visitors."

He said "our own infantry part of the operation was not too successful in that the position was not saturated and we didn't find dazed Chinese who could be taken prisoner."

Phillips said it is necessary to take prisoners in war to determine enemy strength and capability and that was what the raid was for. Prisoners "are our best source of information," he added.

He said the operation "should deserve no more attention" than other actions which have been staged all along the front to get prisoners except that "in this case we had more help."

National Guard Unit Activated At Soo; Old Company In Korea

LANSING (AP)—Activation of the third Michigan National Guard unit to be reorganized after service in Korea is set for Monday night at Sault Ste. Marie.

The unit is the 1437th engineer flat bridge company. Its predecessor was the first national guard unit to see service in the Korean war, arriving in Korea early in March of 1951.

Under the Army's "dual unit" system, the new unit will be trained at reduced strength until the parent unit, now in Korea, returns to setate control sometime in 1955.

The unit will be inspected for federal recognition in the Sault Armory. Organizer and commander of the new company is Lt. Herbert W. Levine.
